This Story shall the good man teach his son...

Working with Fluid Motion Theatre Company, students from Woodlands Secondary School, Kanes Hill and High Town Primary in Southampton have come together to create a fresh and youthful take on one of Shakespeare's most famous historical plays.

Join them when they take to the streets to perform their abridged version of Henry V, including a spectacular procession of French and English troops.

Fluid Motion is known for creating theatre that enables people to participate, engage, inspire and educate. Its work continues to grow, allowing increasingly more people and age groups the chance to create theatre that matters.
